

Oracle Deck

This is my oracle deck.
It contains two parts:
a box made of wood and a column made of cake.

In an early prototype,
I used stone. It was too heavy.
In an early prototype,
I used foam. It was too disgusting.

This cake is pure.
I promise you it will last forever.
I made it with locally milled flour and wildflower honey and cream.

To use the deck, open the wooden box.
There is an arrow painted inside of the lid.
Look where it's pointing.
It's pointing to your lover.

Cut a slice of column cake.
If your slice has clean layers,
you'll marry your true love.
If your slice contains a moth, you'll be a widow soon.

Eat the cake. If you fall ill, you will struggle with fertility.
If you survive, you will be blessed by children. If you refuse to eat, you will become a column.
